 CRIMINAL CONTEMPT
 T.C.A. 36-3-612
 (VIOLATION OF ORDER OF PROTECTION)

I, Paul D Hughes , do hereby make oath that I have probable cause to believe that on 06/16/2026 in Davidson County, David E Campbell , Respondent, has violated the attached Order of Protection, which was entered by [Chris Hofstetter] Judge in Case Number [26OP694]
 on [03/11/2026]

I further make oath that, according to information and belief, this Order was either served on Respondent or read to [Select one] ☒ him ☐ her on [06/11/2026]

The facts which are believed to constitute the violation of the Order of Protection are as follows:

On 6/16/26 officers responded to 323 Westchester Dr for a report of a person with a weapon. Upon arrival officers spoke with the witness who stated that today while sitting on the back porch of the home the defendant, who is the victim's ex-boyfriend that no longer lives at the residence, showed up at the house and pointed a handgun at him. The witness stated that the defendant initially, while pointing the gun at him, told him to knock on the back door of the home and get the victim to open the door. The witness stated that after knocking on back door to the home the defendant asked the witness who he was on the phone with. The witness stated that when he responded by saying it was his friend, the defendant then stated, "I'm trying really hard not to shoot you" and then told the witness to give his phone to him. The witness stated that the defendant then told him to give his car keys to him. The witness stated that after the defendant took his phone and car keys there was a noise heard at the back of the house and when the defendant looked away he was able to run away from the defendant to safety. The victim, who is the witness's mother, stated that she observed the defendant walk up to the back of the residence and called police from inside the home. The victim stated to officers that she currently has an order of protection against the defendant and he is not supposed to be at the location. Officers confirmed through the Davidson County Sheriff's Office that the order of protection is valid and was served to the defendant on 6/11/26.
